Customer Reviews

Borch, a cartographic publishing company from Germany, makes tough, long-lasting maps with non-toxic, environmentally responsible lamination material.

I bought this map and thought it would be a good map for exploring Ecuador. Unfortunately it is very out of date and some of the roads it lists do not exist. Other roads are paved which the map shows as dirt roads. This makes it very difficult to plan a trip. I bought competing maps, the one from Freytag is very good and so is the ITMB. The other problem with this Borch Map is that the lamination is of very poor quality and disintegrated after a short time of use.

thanks

Maps of Ecuador are usually not very detailed, but this one was. I also like the fact that it is laminated. Not only will it hold up, but Dry Eraser markers work well on it, yet can be easily erased.

The map is attractive, durable, but lacks much usefulness for on the ground use. We were wanting more of a road map and found this map to be wanting. Ecuador is building new roads very quickly. We hardly used it, because it was outdated and was only good to find out regional areas of interest or direction.

An excellent map of the entire country, along with smaller detailed maps of the Galapagos, Quito and vicinity, Quito city center, Guayaquil, and Cuenca. Place name index of the country and street name index of larger cities. Lamination is excellent - no complaints at all. I'm going to Ecuador in two weeks so won't be able to comment on accuracy until after I get back.

Great map. Laminated too. Came fast!

In this day of the GPS and computer nothing can take the place of a good old fashion map to hold in your hands while planning to travel. Thanks.

This map was exactly what I was looking for. I also purchased one for a friend. We are planning a trip there and this gives us major cities and roads and quite a few of the smaller areas. It also shows national parks, lakes, rivers, etc. Being laminated will keep it in good condition for a long time.
