The Paradox: How Power Powerfully Powers Power

Synopsis

All the good men and women, past and present, who shone a light for others to follow, had their own share of demons to conquer, and they emerged victorious. Malcolm is a young Harvard graduate visiting Italy. He befriends an enigmatic priest who offers to give him a tour of the Duomo Cathedral. The truth unfolds; this so-called priest is actually the devil, and he is after Malcolm's soul! In their travels to get to the cathedral, Malcolm and the devil encounter people with various sins. Their names are written in the devil's book; he will claim their souls. Malcolm argues with the devil over the alleged sins of these people while at the same time a little fearful; will the devil take his soul, too? "You may as well call me the devil, for I might as well tell you, I am indeed the devil." "That's impossible; the devil would not dress like a priest, carry the holy book, wear a cross, and work in a church." The devil smiled and said, "Why not?" I loved this novel, I really enjoyed reading it. The ending was a very huge surprise to me. It is really a wonderful read.

The book is a lively, balanced and insightful discussion that stimulates readers to think and attempt an answer to the question: "Are human beings evil?" The arguments, especially those against humans, are very well articulated and supported with numerous examples that skillfully penetrate the elaborate veil of hypocrisy, deceit, double standards, cruelty and exploitation practiced by the vast majority of humans! The book provides a balanced and credible peek at the real faces of so-called leaders, captains of industry, saviors and others! Read the book to find out who wins - Malcolm the Harvard educated intelligent young man or Mr. Devil !

This book has great reflection on today's social controversy, and refers to the unanswered questions of human nature, communities, politics, and destiny. Yet the great thing about this book is that it talks about the pre-mentioned topics in a different, exciting and dramatic way that makes it very entertaining to read. I loved it.
