Paul Brown has obviously spent hours collecting the "best 1000 quotes" and while there are many sources of quotes from which to choose, this collection is a cogent one in that Paul shares his feelings about the significance of quotes: "The good quote summarizes an idea or a thought. It presents an idea in a particularly enlightening way and it gives reader the liberty to imagine what lies under the surface that was never seen before. Quotes are really beneficial because they can inspire you to make your life better but you must first read them." Unlike other authors who categorize their quote collections, Paul simply lets the words of many different types of people speak for them selves. Some examples follow: "Two things are infinite: the universe and human stupidity; and I'm not sure about the universe." Albert Einstein. "Be yourself; everyone else is already taken." Oscar Wilde, "If you want to know what a man's like, take a good look at how he treats his inferiors, not his equals." J.K. Rowling, "Without music, life would be a mistake." Friedrich Nietzsche, "It is better to be hated for what you are than to be loved for what you are not." Andr  Gide, "Not all of us can do great things. But we can do small things with great love." Mother Teresa, and many more. Not only is this a solid little collection of inspiring quotes, but it is also a very well selected set of quotes for writers, for speechmakers, or for sending notes to loved ones.

I am in love with this book. I am not saying here that I have read all the thousand quotes mentioned in this book but at least I have gone through more than 300. I must say sheer work hard work is involved in compilation of this book. You can save time of searching for quotes on internet. Highly recommended for people who use quotes to update their statuses on social media. It will make you laugh and emotional. Indeed it is a mixture of valuable words!!!
