How Our Departed Ones Live: The Experience Of The Orthodox Church

Synopsis

"Our Lord Jesus Christ is the Conqueror of death, and, consequently, of the death of our departed ones. Let us say to them in Him, not 'Farewell,' but 'Until we meet again, beloved spouse, good parents, dear brother or sister. Until we meet again!'" While many are now abandoning traditional religious practice, none the less, the reality of death and questions regarding the afterlife remain at the forefront of spiritual consciousness. How Our Departed Ones Live is the answer to those who seek the truth as expressed through the experience of the Orthodox Church. This comprehensive book discusses the source of death and mortality, the inner connection and mutual relationship between the living and the departed, intercession by the living for the departed, and life beyond the grave. It will comfort the grieving and inspire all Christians to strengthen their resolve as they seek first the Kingdom of God, and His righteousness.

"More than just a book about death, this book is a catechism of the Orthodox Church. It provides a view of our faith, not from this world, but as if looking back from the next, revealing not how things are, but how things were meant to be, how they went wrong, how they are repaired, and the various results of all these events. This is a book for those who wish to know not only about the next life, but about this life and how to live in it. Truly this is a book that goes far, far beyond its title."

â "Archpriest David Moser" A long lost book written by a Russian monk some 130 years [ago] . . . has the power not only to shield, but to erase, that unfortunate 'sorrow of death'; so ubiquitous in our American culture today." â "Gregory Winsky, Esq, blogs.ancientfaith.com

Monk Mitrophan was Russian Orthodox monk of the Konevets Monastery. John Robert Shaw is a liturgist, Slavist, and polyglot. In 2008 he was tonsured a monk with the name Jerome and subsequently consecrated as Bishop of Manhattan.

Very helpful to me after I lost 11 classmates, friends, and acquaintances in 102 days in mid-2016

My wife and I have read this. Our perspectives on life will never be the same. What a wonderful comfort and understanding of life beyond the grave.

My husband is reading this for one of his classes and is enjoying it.
