Graphs & maps convey crucial sociological data. There are two types of maps; one focused on the U.S. called "Mapping America's Diversity;" and the other on the world called "Viewing Society of Global Perspective." Graphs on such topics as public opinion, income and poverty data, and other demographic facts are used throughout the text to help you learn how to interpret data. Learning objectives list what you need to learn. Maximize your study time and enhance your retention of key concepts with learning objectives, which are included near the beginning of every chapter. Let's get real. "A Sociological Eye on the Media" boxes help you become savvy and discerning of consumer of media messages that can be misleading or inaccurate. Topics include "Death of a Superstar,' about Whitney Houston; and 'Idealizing Family Life,' featuring images of families as portrayed in popular television programs. What would a sociologist say? 'What Would a Sociologist Say' boxes are intended to show you the way that sociologists understand particular topics, thus moving you away from the typically more individualistic explanations of common topics.

Margaret L. Andersen (B.A., Georgia State University; M.A., Ph.D. University of Massachusetts, Amherst) is the Edward F. and Elizabeth Goodman Rosenberg Professor of Sociology at the University of Delaware, where she has also served in several senior administrative positions, including most recently as Vice Provost for Faculty Affairs and Diversity. She holds secondary appointments in Black American Studies and Women and Gender Studies. She is the author of several books, including (among others) THINKING ABOUT WOMEN, recently published in its tenth edition; the best-selling anthology, RACE, CLASS, AND GENDER (co-edited with Patricia Hill Collins, now in its ninth edition); LIVING ART: THE LIFE OF PAUL R. JONES, AFRICAN AMERICAN ART COLLECTOR; and ON LAND AND ON SEA: A CENTURY OF WOMEN IN THE ROSENFELD COLLECTION. She is a member of the National Advisory Board for Stanford University's Center for Comparative Studies in Race and Ethnicity, the Past Vice President of the American Sociological Association, and Past President of the Eastern Sociological Society, from which she received the ESS Merit Award. She has also received two teaching awards from the University of Delaware and the American Sociological Association's Jessie Bernard Award. Howard F. Taylor has taught at the Illinois Institute of Technology, Syracuse University, and Princeton University, where he is presently Professor of Sociology and former director of the African American Studies Center. He has published over fifty articles in sociology, education, social psychology, and race relations. His books include THE IQ GAME (Rutgers University Press), a critique of hereditarian accounts of intelligence; BALANCE IN SMALL GROUPS (Van Nostrand Reinhold), translated into Japanese; and the forthcoming RACE AND CLASS AND THE BELL CURVE IN AMERICA. He has appeared widely before college, radio, and TV audiences, including ABC's Nightline. Past president of the Eastern Sociological Society, Dr. Taylor is a member of the American Sociological Association and the Sociological Research Association, an honorary society for distinguished research. He is a winner of the DuBois-Johnson-Frazier Award, given by the American Sociological Association for distinguished research in race and ethnic relations, and the President's Award for Distinguished Teaching at Princeton University. Raised in Cleveland, Ohio, he graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Hiram College and has a Ph.D. in sociology from Yale University.

Good book. Excellent rental condition. Not a fan of some of the remarks made, but then no one should agree with everything read.

Good book

To much wording before a point is made.

Great book! Exactly what I was looking for!

Very goof

Book was in pretty rough condition. It's only for a dork week course though so we'll make do! Definitely helped me save some money.
